

Evaporating Dish

Abdampfschale

Georg-August-Universität Göttingen

Evaporation Dish

An evaporating dish, also known as a “porcelain dish“, is an open container used for heating solutions and liquids. Most evaporating dishes are made of porcelain or ceramics.

The particularly flat and semi-deep shape ensures that the heated liquid evaporates quickly.

To heat liquids in the evaporating dish above a gas burner, use crucible tongs or place it on a tripod.

