

Cuvette

Küvette

Georg-August-Universität Göttingen

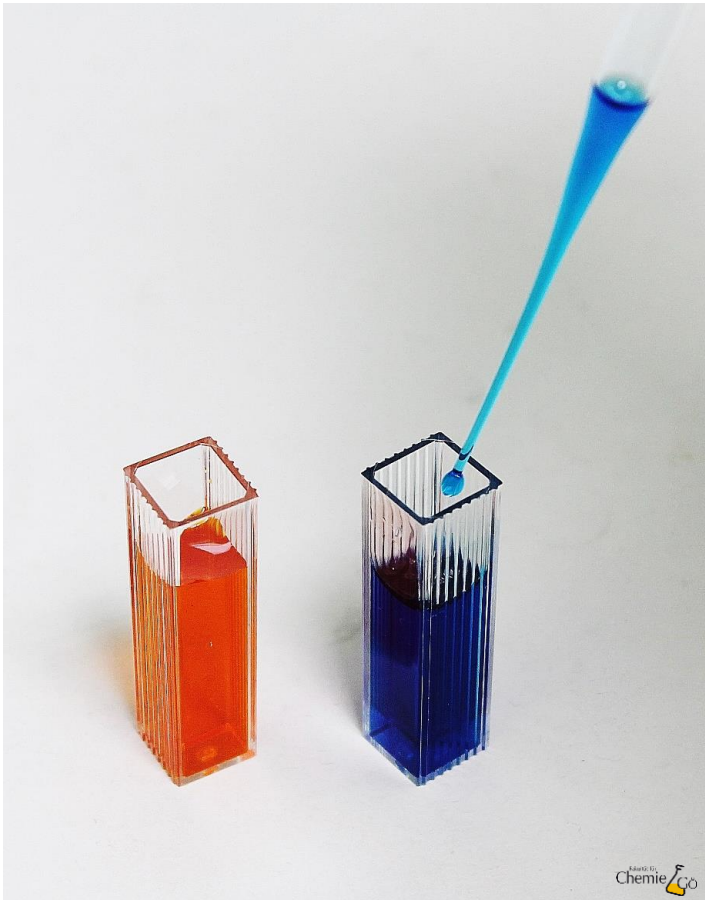

Cuvette

A cuvette is a sample vial for spectroscopic applications, made mostly of plastic or quartz glass.

In photometry, a cuvette of 1 cm diameter is used.

The cuvette should only be touched at the rough surfaces, as fingerprints on the smooth surfaces can interfere with the measurement.

The cuvette is filled with a solution and subsequently placed in the spectrometer.